A Season of Ordination

As part of worship last Sunday, we ordained Ronnie Oliver to the Gospel Ministry. This coming Sunday we will ordain Brandon Respress as a new deacon. Each time we formally set someone apart for Christian service it is a holy celebration, and we get to celebrate that kind of calling/commissioning two Sundays in a row now.

Last Sunday as Ronnie was ordained, we talked a bit about Isaiah's transcendent experience of God in the Temple as part of his calling and commissioning, and we were reminded that the experience of God in worship really does have the power to change us.

This Sunday as we ordain Brandon Respress, we'll talk about an appropriate kind of self-awareness that allows those called to serve (that's all of us) to really flourish in life. Psalm 84 says those who walk with God have a way of moving "from strength to strength." And Jesus teaches in the New Testament about a balanced, self-aware approach to living characterized by humility, saying that those who manage to live this way will be exalted.

God's presence in our lives and in our worship changes us—and it changes us in ways that allow us to really flourish. Ordination two Sundays in a row is really special. It's a sign of God's presence and our flourishing.

See you Sunday,

Matt

Music Ministry

Dear Central Family,

I am still overwhelmed with gratitude and joy from the beautiful, meaningful ordination service on Sunday. It was truly a moment I will never forget.

My heartfelt thanks to Matt, the Choir, Ann, Henry, Yen Yu, Alexandria, David, Leah, Josh, Katie, and Annie—each of you offered your gifts so generously, and together you created something profoundly moving. I am deeply touched by the prayers, encouragement, and love I received from the members of Central Baptist Church.

Your love and support has strengthened my faith. I will endeavor to serve you and this community in a way that honors God and encourages you, just as you have encouraged me.

With deep appreciation and love,

Gratefully,

Ronnie
